PROFILE

I am a junior developer seeking a full-time position in the field of technology, where I can apply my knowledge and skills for continuous improvement. I am interested in further developing both personally and professionally, striving to keep up to date with constant advancements in technology. I am a trustworthy, hardworking, team player. I have an eye for detail and a methodical approach to solving complex problems. My positive, solution-oriented attitude makes me a valued coworker and team leader. After being given the opportunity to explore web development, I have found a medium that I love and am truly excited about.
